Rahul Roy-Chowdhury is Grammarly's Chief Executive Officer. Rahul's passion for Grammarly's users and mission inform his ambition to make communication assistance as ubiquitous as the smartphone. As the company's former Global Head of Product, Rahul oversaw moving the Grammarly product beyond the revision stage to support people through the entire communication journey.

Before coming aboard at Grammarly, Rahul spent many years at Google leading the Privacy, Safety, and Security teams to unified solutions across Google's product portfolio. Prior to that, he helmed the product management teams for Chrome browser and Chrome OS.

Rahul also mentors entrepreneurs and product leaders, sharing his experience and the lessons he's learned along the way. One of Rahul's big personal goals is to impart his love of '80s music to his children, and he hopes he made an inroad recently with Queen's "Another One Bites the Dust." Rahul holds a BS in mathematics from Hamilton College, an MS in computer science from Columbia University, and an MBA from Stanford Graduate School of Business.
