

Stu West, Chief Financial Officer

Stu is CFO at Grammarly, overseeing our financial strategy and the finance function. Stu spent eight years as CFO at Automattic, where he was responsible for business and operations, including international operations, marketing, administration, and financial strategy.

Before Automattic, Stu served as CFO and other executive roles at TiVo, Yahoo!, and other technology companies. Stu is a current advisor and former long-term board member and trustee of the Wikimedia Foundation, the nonprofit behind Wikipedia. Before that, he worked in investment banking at J.P. Morgan and worked for the U.S. State Department at the United Nations. Stu received a bachelor's degree in history from Yale University.